MORE SUMMER FUN IN THE PHILIPPINES A tourist explores the pristine waters and coves of the Caramoan islands in Camarines Sur on a stand-up paddleboard, an activity that is becoming popular in the province, which is fast emerging as a favorite destination for paddleboarding aficionados from abroad. In fact, Caramoan has recently been chosen the venue of the stand-up paddleboard world championship in April next year.

Ombudsman probing complaints vs Corona

By Juliet Labog-Javellana

ASIDE from his peso accounts and real estate properties, impeached Chief Justice Renato Corona allegedly has at least $10 million in bank accounts that the Ombudsman is now asking him to explain.

Ombudsman Conchita Carpio Morales, acting on several complaints filed with her office, asked Corona to explain in writing within 72 hours how he acquired several peso and dollar accounts, allegedly "grossly disproportionate" to his salary, in different banks.

The order was dated April 20 and served on Corona on April 23.

"This office finds that there is reasonable ground to proceed further with the conduct of an inquiry vis-à-vis the charges that you, during your incumbency as a public officer, accumulated wealth that is purportedly grossly disproportionate to your salary and other lawful income," Morales said in the April 20 order, a copy of which was obtained by the Inquirer.

In addition, Morales said in the letter that she had received information that "there are several bank accounts in PSBank and several other banks in your (Corona's) name, including those denominated in US dollars the aggregate value of which amounts to at least US$10,000,000."

Through his lawyer, Ramon Esguerra, Corona responded with a terse four-point reply: (1) I do not own $10M. It simply does not

PH hits Sino 'bullying,' sticks to 'right is might'

By Philip C. Tubeza and DJ Yap

THE PHILIPPINES accused China yesterday of "bullying" in the West Philippine Sea (South China Sea) after a large Chinese ship harassed two small Philippine vessels at Scarborough Shoal, where the two countries have been facing off each other over territorial rights for nearly three weeks.

China has now 10 vessels in the area, three maritime surveillance vessels and seven fishing boats. The Philippines has two, a Coast Guard surveillance vessel and a Bureau of Fisheries boat.

Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA) spokesperson Raul Hernandez identified the bully as the Chinese vessel FLEC 310, touted to be China's most modern maritime surveillance ship and which had been thought to have left the area on Friday. Apparently, the vessel just moved out of Philippine sight and re-

Poverty busters 4Ps score with women on top

EMPOWERED WOMAN Evelina Gok-ong is all smiles with her children, confident in her work as a dealer of beauty products and that her hard work today is for the family's good future.

TWO YEARS from now, several community beneficiaries in Cebu will graduate from the Pantawid Pamilyang Pilipino Program (4Ps).

As the first batch of graduates from the program, beneficiaries from Barangays Sudlon I and II, Tejero, Dalju Patima, Lapu-Lapu City, Mambaling and T. Padilla are already preparing to embark on life without help from the government.

At present, help comes from the conditional cash transfer (CCT) program, also known as 4Ps, a five-year poverty-reduction strategy of the Aquino administration administered by the Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD).

The program provides conditional cash grants to the poorest poor. In Cebu, for example, 106,017 households in 48 municipalities benefit from the program.

Under the program, the beneficiaries receive cash in exchange for submitting to prenatal and postnatal care for pregnant women; immunization, weighing and de-worming for children; attending family development sessions (FDS) for parents to learn good parenting, responsible parenthood and rights awareness; and at least 85 percent school attendance a month for children.

Each community beneficiary has a parent leader who over-

THEIR goal: Go for gold.

In a few years, one of these 11 bemedalled youth athletes might actually bring home that elusive national dream of an Olympic gold.

The young athletes come closer to that dream as they fly to London in July to study—and have fun—at a British boarding school. As an added reward, they get to watch the 2012 London Olympics.

A first in Philippine sports, top performers from the Batang Pinoy Philippine Youth Games last year will be flying to the United Kingdom for two weeks of summer school at St. Bede's International School as scholars of the British Council Philippines and the British Embassy in Manila. The young athletes will stay in Britain from July 28 to Aug. 11.

BAGAC, BATAAN—When Jose "Jerry" Acuzar, president of New San Jose Builders Inc. (NSJBI), began constructing Spanish-period mansions at his beachfront property in Barangay Pag-asa here in 2003, fisherman Nomer Yuzon thought the architect was only collecting old wood.

Little did he know that the real estate developer was building a one-of-a-kind heritage resort in the country, which opened to residents and tourists in March 2010 and has since provided a mine of opportunities for Bataan residents.

MERON NANG KATUPARAN ANG IYONG MGA PANGARAP PARA SA KANYA.

GAYA NG 15,000 PLANHOLDERS, MATUTUPAD RIN ANG IYONG PANGARAP PARA SA IYONG ANAK.

Tuloy-tuloy na ang katuparan ng mga pangarap ng mga PhilPlans education planholders na mapagtapos ang kanilang anak sa pag-aaral. Ngayong papalapit na April 30, higit sa P565 Milyon na education plan benefits ang ibabahagi ng PhilPlans sa mahigit sa 15,000 na mga education planholders. Ang education benefit payout ay magsisimula sa April 16, 2012, isang buwan bago ang simula ng pasukan.

Ipinagmamalaki ng PhilPlans ang kakayahan nitong tumupad sa pangako nito sa kanyang mga planholders. Sa katunayan, para sa taong 2011, naglabas ang PhilPlans ng P878 Milyon para sa education benefits ng mga planholders nito. Ang halagang ito ay maagap na ibinahagi sa mga planholders.

Ang kakayahan ng PhilPlans na tumupad sa mga obligasyon nito ay nagmumula sa masusi at maingat na pag-aalaga sa Trust Fund nito. Sa kasalukuyan, ang PhilPlans ay may Trust Fund na P35.7 Bilyon (audited as of December 31, 2010). Samantala, ang Actuarial Reserve Liabilities, o ang obligasyon nito sa planholders ay nasa P27.8 Bilyon lamang – nangangahulugan na meron pang sobrang Trust Fund ang PhilPlans na P7.9 Bilyon.

At bilang tugon sa nagbabagong panahon, kamakailan ay naglabas ang PhilPlans ng bagong education plans – ang Summa at Magna. Ang mga education plans na ito ay nilikha bilang kasagutan sa mga magulang na pangarap na mapagtapos ang kanilang mga anak sa pag-aaral. Bukod sa education plan benefits, ang Summa at Magna ay may kasama ring insurance coverage para sa magulang at anak, maliban pa sa graduation gift.

A PhilPlans education plan beneficiary, Dr. Ven Andre Medina ranked 6th in the recently concluded 2011 Physician Licensure Examination. He graduated Magna Cum Laude in BS Psychology at De La Salle Lipa and received the PhilPlans Scholastic Achievement Awards 2006.

"Honestly, I still have a hard time believing how an ordinary boy before from an ordinary family was able to fulfill a great dream of becoming a doctor. Indeed, there is nothing impossible if you are dedicated in fulfilling your dream. But efforts were not enough to help me achieve my dream. In reality, schooling requires financial assistance. Fortunately, my parents were very supportive and were able to plan ahead. Thanks to PhilPlans, I was able to go to a prestigious university for college for my pre-medical education. Along with the scholarship grants, PhilPlans helped me a lot in acquiring my bachelor's degree as a stepping stone towards my medical education and ultimately towards achieving my dream of becoming a doctor. Sincerely, my parents and I were more than thankful and proud that PhilPlans became part of our lives and success as well."

– Dr. Ven Andre Medina, PhilPlans beneficiary

"Being a mother, my only dream is to send my children to school and to see them become professionals. I have three kids, and it was difficult for me and my husband to sustain their college education. Thankfully, we got PhilPlans education plans early on for our three children. Because of our PhilPlans education plans, we were able to send all our children to top universities. Today, they are all professionals in their field and are working in reputable companies."

*Unaudited for the year

PhilPlans is the leading pre-need company in the industry according to BusinessWorld's Top 1000 Corporations ranking. In 2011, PhilPlans registered a consolidated net income of P1.6 Billion (audited), a 58 percent increase from the previous year's P1.01 Billion. The company's Trust Fund of P35.7 Billion (audited as of December 31, 2010) makes for 45 percent of the combined industry trust fund of P79 Billion.

In 2011, PhilPlans dutifully released over P2.3 Billion in plan benefits to more than 46,000 planholders. Of this amount, P1.4 Billion was paid out for pension benefits, P878 Million for education benefits, and P17 Million for memorial benefits.

PhilPlans is backed up by the strength of the Philippine First Group and STI (Systems Technology Institute).

Marikina turns junk styros into patios

By Nika Cabeja

GARBAGE IN, garden delights out.

The Marikina City government since Monday has been churning out hundreds of paving blocks out of used styrofoam packaging and plastic wastes, in a project that shows how recycling can both protect and beautify the environment.

It only takes two machines, a shredder and a "styro-plastic densifier" to churn out high-piece of equipment but with raw materials through a cylindrical mould, to turn them into interlock [illegible] blocks durable enough for parks, indoor flooring, or sidewalks.

Apart from providing the city government with an alternative source of construction materials, the project can help reduce Marikina's garbage output and its P70-million Annual budget for collecting and hauling household waste to a landfill in Rodriguez, Rizal province.

The shredder and densifier were acquired by the city government for P400,000 under a project dubbed "From Waste to Landscape."

"The savings the city will get and the benefits to the environment will definitely surpass the cost of acquiring the technology," according to Oliver Villaflores, the assistant city environmental officer.

The recipe is quite simple: For every 20 kilos of styrofoam and a corresponding amount of used cooking oil, the machines can produce at least 21 blocks.

"These products will never be wasted. Imagine an area measuring 2 meters by 3 meters that must be covered with 150 blocks. How much styrofoam would that require? Perhaps around 150 kilos," he said.

The netizen files

By Erika Guarino

In this digital world, there's no way to go but online. Whether you like it or not, we are all netizens–citizens of the internet, travellers of the digital jungle, captive audience of the social media stage and disciples of mobile technology.

The reality is being mobile is no longer an option. It is the prevailing way of life. It's how people do business and maintain relationships. It's how we live. It's all just a matter of how immersed you are in the culture of mobile technology.

Now, the question is: Which netizen are you?

We classified mobile users into four categories: the ProSurfer, the Mobile Netizen, the Loyalist and the Explorer.

1. The ProSurfer will not settle for anything less than superior and uninterrupted mobile connection. Because of this, the ProSurfer is everywhere–Tumblr, YouTube, Twitter, you name it, he's on it.

2. The Mobile Netizen is the digital world's version of the average Joe. He usually mobile surfs to check an important mail or do a quick Google search.

3. The Loyalist believes that mobile technology means mobile social media. So for him, it usually just means Facebook and Twitter 24/7.

4. The Explorer is the newcomer into the world of mobile technology. He is only beginning to discover the joys of mobile surfing so he's starting out with a little "Facebook-ing" here and there.

Each one of them is distinctively different and yet they are bound together by the single most important thing for mobile surfers–protection from bill shock.

It is so easy to get lost in a sea of mobile excitement that oftentimes, users forget the simplest thing about mobile surfing–it can come with a cost. Now, this is where we come in. We have implemented a comprehensive anti-bill shock feature especially for our actively mobile users.

For iPhone and Data Lite plan subscribers, an anti-bill shock plan is automatically in place–no registration, no expiry–to make sure you only pay for mobile data that you actually consume.

We all know what bill shock feels like–like we've been cheated and stolen from, like we've been disowned and disappointed. So with this shockproof, capping feature, there will be no more room for apprehension and hesitation or for fear and worry. It's all about doing more and being more. Come to think of it, a life with one less concern to worry about really is a life that gives us the chance to live more.

And, at the end of the day, knowing that you are protected from bill shock makes being a netizen, regardless of what category, a welcome choice.

Standard Chartered plans to stay in PH for good

By Doris C. Dumlao

BRITISH bank Standard Chartered, the longest serving foreign bank in the Philippines, has done business in the country through World Wars, economic cycles and political upheavals over the last 140 years.

It has been second to none key people in history like national hero Jose Rizal, who used its banking services when he was a student in Europe.

Top bank officials believe that more than ever, the Philippines today has the potential to enter a new growth phase.

And after over a century of being here, Stanchart is keen on remaining an integral part of the Philippine growth story.

"What's different for the Philippines now is the renewed sense of confidence that the political climate is stable, that the current administration has the right intents and desires and I think the position of Philippines is very strong and the balance sheet is very strong," Stanchart Philippines chief executive officer Mahendra Gursahani says in an interview with Inquirer.

High growth period

"The conditions internally all point to a period where if the execution is in the manner that the government intends, then we should see a period of growth that is perhaps unprecedented," he adds.

Mahendra says business process outsourcing and remittances would continue to help the Philippine economy grow while other new growth drivers like tourism may become more significant in the future.

He notes that the entertainment city being developed by the government through the Philippine Amusement and Gaming Corp. is part of this effort to boost tourism. "Mining obviously remains to be one that has a huge potential but is also fraught with challenges," he says.

The fact that Stanchart was the first international bank to set up shop in the Philippines is already a proud legacy, Mahendra says, adding that the bank will continue to be part of future growth.

"We've seen the country go through much in those 140 years and the fact that we've remained here with an unbroken stint is a testimony to our commitment and confidence in the Philippines and our role in the economy, which over the years, in different shapes and forms that have evolved with the economy as a whole," he says.

At ease in Asia

Overall, Stanchart is at ease doing business in Asia, which now accounts for two-thirds of its global franchise whether by revenues, profit, assets, staff headcount or bank branches.

"It's primarily our home," says Stanchart Asia CEO Jaspal Bindra, who recently flew in to grace the bank's 140th anniversary celebration gala night.

Jaspal says Southeast Asia, the region where the Philippines is part of, is doing exceptionally well.

"It's one of the fastest growing regions within the bank and the more positive feature of that growth is that a lot of growth is happening intra-Asean which is even better," he says, noting the strong domestic consumer markets in the region.

Compared to other regional groups, Jaspal says the bank's business in the region is also growing much faster because "we don't have some of drags" that the economies are experiencing in Europe or Japan.

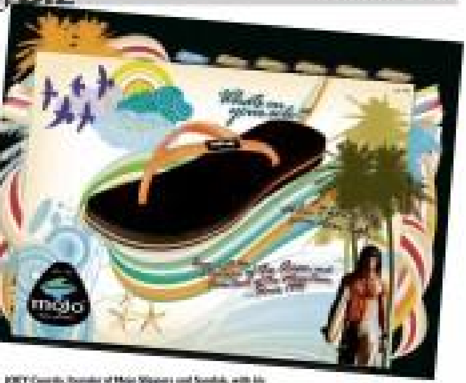

"But when it comes to domestic local banks, then clearly they are doing as well as

Elizabeth Gilbert's memoir 'Eat, Pray, Love,' adapted into a film with Julia Roberts starring, made Bali a site for soul-searching. Of course, Bali is also for shopping

ENCHANTING BALI has once again captured my adventurous soul. There is something mystical about this island paradise that attracts ardent travelers. Whether one is visiting temples or experiencing Balinese arts and culture or simply meditating, Bali has so much to offer.

The Ralph Lauren Big Pony Fragrance Collection for Women chose this legendary island to launch its four distinct variants. A selected group of print and TV media were invited to experience "Life in Color" in luxurious comfort and personal attention.

The Big Pony Collection celebrates the many facets and accomplishments of modern-day women who embrace dynamic femininity, focusing on four vital attributes—sporty, sensuality, free spirit and joyful.

Sporty, labeled #1 and in a blue box, has a floral citrus scent and is aimed at fearless and confident modern women. Sensual is the #2 scent, and is, of course, passionate and potent, with "flowered" fruity overtones, all in a sexy pink box.

Free-spirited is #3 and in a yellow box, a floral green scent for the lady who constantly reinvents herself and is always looking for new challenges. Stylish, the fourth fragrance, has oriental floral notes and is for the fashionista, in a royal purple box.

Over the four-day trip, we learned about each fragrance's personality and matched them with exciting activities. Our group was composed of a diverse set of multi-faceted individuals, which challenged the Ralph Lauren team to come up with different activities.

The entire trip was customized to the smallest detail. Even our luggage tags were Big Pony labeled and we had VIP lanes in all the airports. After settling into our private villas, each with individual plunge pools, we were given the first variant to enjoy, Sporty, along with a Big Pony bag of island essentials.

Janie Lulapan, L'Oreal Fragrances business manager, presented four hues of the fragrances—blue for sporty freshness, pink for love and compassion, yellow for happiness, and purple for style and royalty. Charlene Hernandez-Chua, L'Oreal Luxe Division GM, welcomed us to the special lunch.

While traveling the island, four different Ralph Lauren-branded vans with Big Pony color accents took us around. Our van was slowly getting filled up with market purchases and garden skin bags.

My shopping partner, Bea Ledesma of Philippine Star, helped me find a cowhide carpet. I continued my shopping at her new jewelry line with Dacosta's Rio Prieto. Naria, Montereras and Migratory Jewelry Collection was launched at The Oaks Club at the Fort.

For the Sporty Activity, the RL Team chose the famous Ubud ATV Paddy Adventure for some athletic enjoyment and quintessential rugged fun. The exciting ATV ride provided ample viewing opportunities of the picturesque rice paddies of Bali. Inquirer's Isabel Roces and NU Carlo Lim were the brave ones who took the challenge. Adventurous Karen Pennissmon of Lifestyle Network had a blast as well.

The Sporty batch joined us for lunch at Bebek Bengil (Dirty Duck) Restaurant. It has a large spacious area with an Indonesian-styled, raised platform, allowing for seating panoramically overlooking the rice paddies. Famous for their Crispy Duck, Bebek Bengil also served a gamut of Indonesian fare to sate our group.

Ubud

Ubud is a remarkable town in the middle of the island of Bali. For more than a century, it has been the island's preeminent center for fine arts, dance and music. While it once was a haven for scruffy backpackers, cosmic seekers, artists and bohemians, Ubud is now a hotspot for liberal, gilt-eral, art collectors and connoisseurs. Elizabeth Gilbert's memoir "Eat, Pray, Love" doubled the number of visitors to the island, and all that was before Julia Roberts starred on the scene.

For the Stylish lifestyle, Ubud's art market and shops in Seminyak Square provided perfect adventure shopping. Everyone went crazy finding high-quality handicrafts and fashionable Indonesian bags and accessories. The Indonesian currency, called the rupiah, is quite overwhelming with everything seemingly priced in the millions.

Boracay's style set Paulina Joan and Agnes Bengzon paraded their new clothes at the after-ride bar and restaurant Woo at W Hotel. Inquirer's Ingrid Go also looked so chic. During dinner, the RL Bali family greeted ABS-CBN Publishing's Philip Co Unjieng on his birthday. It was a perfect celebration in a stunning setting.

The Sensual experience was attained with a pleasurable and relaxing experience at the renowned W Retreat & Spa at the W Hotel. A luxurious massage and pampering session was heavenly set amid the modern spa atmosphere.

Fordi Salvador, Events Architects head, got his wellness time with a few minutes in the Oxygen Bar inside the lounge of the spa. His team did a remarkable job in organizing the successful Big Pony launch. We reunited to celebrate his birthday at Skye Bar just the other day.

Potato Head, in Seminyak, is a visual experience with curved walls, subdued lighting and pool loungers. It was a perfect venue for our Seafood Dinner. Like its the name of its restaurant that serves authentic, home-cooked Asian cuisine.

Walls decorated with shutters on the walls of the pre-reception area and a super cool lifestyle shop are just some of the elements of Potato Head that makes it the hippest place to be seen. Great music completed the awesome vibe.

Of the four fragrances, I would say Yellow #3 for the free-spirited is my favorite. For this adventure, everyone enjoyed an exploration of one of the island's most significant temples, Uluwatu Temple. The faint outskirts of the spectacular temple is perched on the edge of a cliff that towers above the legendary surf breaks of Southern Bali. Right after that experience, lunch was served in Warisan Restaurant with a delicious French and Mediterranean menu.

Truly, smelling great can be experienced wonderfully with any of the four scents of the Ralph Lauren Big Pony Fragrance Collection for Women.

Electrolux Cares for your Family and the Environment with the Family Tree Advocacy

Summer is definitely here and to keep your family feeling cool and fresh, Electrolux presents its latest innovation, the Viva Grande Inverter Air Conditioner.

Energy efficient and easy on the ears, the new Electrolux Viva Grande Inverter Air Conditioner offers optimized cooling during hot weather conditions. Its high Energy Efficiency Rating of 15.3, the highest in the market, can reduce energy consumption by as much as 50 percent compared to non-inverter split-type air conditioners. Its inverter technology also ensures a low operational noise of up to 20 decibels, softer than the sound of rustling leaves. It's so quiet you won't know it's turned on, providing undisturbed rest for the entire family.

Designed for comfort, this air conditioner creates 3D air flow and diffuses air to every corner of the room. It also comes equipped with an impressive list of air purifying features that work by trapping various dust particles and releasing active plasma ions to prevent the formation of mold and even kill viruses and bacteria. The overall effect is improved air quality in the home and better health benefits for everyone to enjoy.

The Viva Grande even allows you to create a custom sleep program with its Genius Sleep function. This allows you to set the desired room temperature every hour for eight hours to suit your specific sleeping patterns. This not only provides better and precise comfort, but also helps to save on energy.

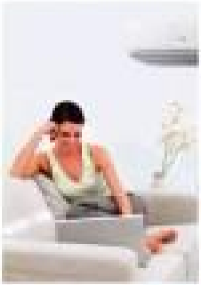

Taking an extra step in helping find solutions for the environment, Electrolux recently launched the Family Tree Environmental Advocacy Campaign. In partnership with the Department of Environment and Natural Resources' (DENR) National Greening Program, Electrolux aims to support DENR's goal of planting 1.5 Billion trees to cover 1.5 Million hectares within 6 years.

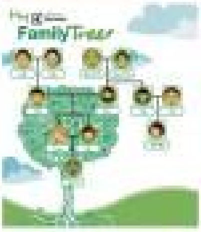

To encourage more people to do the same, Electrolux launched digital campaign called "Click for a Tree". For every follower of Electrolux's twitter account that tweets, 'I want to help plant a Tree! #ElectroluxPH #FamilyTree' and for every Facebook fan that makes a pledge of support on the Family Tree tab, Electrolux commits to planting a tree. As an added bonus, lucky participants get the chance to win exciting prizes from Electrolux Philippines!

In line with the Family Tree campaign, Electrolux has also created the My Family Tree and My Aircon Guide online applications. My Family Tree allows users to create their own version of their family tree and share it on their Facebook accounts. My Aircon Guide is designed to help you determine the right type of air conditioner for your home based on your room size, lifestyle preferences and budget. Visit electrolux.com.ph/familytree to start using these applications for free.

Woodstock farewell for Levon

WOODSTOCK, New York—There was a reunion of sorts at Woodstock on Thursday.

Musicians, friends and fans gathered in the barn and home studio where Levon Helm staged his Midnight Ramble concerts, to remember the influential singer and drummer for The Band, who died of throat cancer last week at age 71.

Nearly 2,000 people attended his wake, not far from where The Band played at the Woodstock gathering in 1969, said a spokesperson for the bus company that shuttled mourners from the village to the wooded grounds of Helm's home and studio.
